T. Ritchey: General Morphological Analysis _____ 3 The first to use the term morphology as an explicitly defined scientific method would seem to be J. W. von Goethe (1749-1832), especially in his "comparative morphology" in botany.

General Morphological Analysis

Essentially, general morphological analysis is a method for identifying and investigating the total set of possible relationships or "configurations" contained in a given problem complex.

Mathematical morphology (MM) is a theory and technique for the analysis and processing of geometrical structures, based on set theory, lattice theory, topology, and random functions. MM is most commonly applied to digital images, but it can be employed as well on graphs, surface meshes, solids, and many other spatial structures.. Topological and geometrical continuous-space concepts such as ...

Lyme disease is the most common tick-borne disease in North America, and is transmitted by blacklegged ticks carrying Borrelia bacteria. Infection by a tick takes at least 24 hours because of the time required for the bacteria to travel from the tick midgut to its salivary glands.

A scanning electron microscope (SEM) is a type of electron microscope that produces images of a sample by scanning the surface with a focused beam of electrons. The electrons interact with atoms in the sample, producing various signals that contain information about the surface topography and composition of the sample. The electron beam is scanned in a raster scan pattern, and the position of ...
