Debits and credits occur simultaneously in every financial transaction in double-entry bookkeeping. In the accounting equation, Assets = Liabilities + Equity, so, if an asset account increases (a debit (left)), then either another asset account must decrease (a credit (right)), or a liability or equity account must increase (a credit (right)). Note also that in the extended equation, revenues ...

Debits and credits - Wikipedia

The fundamental accounting equation, also called the balance sheet equation, represents the relationship between the assets, liabilities, and owner's equity of a person or business. It is the foundation for the double-entry bookkeeping system. For each transaction, the total debits equal the total credits. It can be expressed as further more. = + = + = + = +

The positive relationship between income per capita and financial development is illustrated in Fig. 1. Fig. 1 shows that all three financial intermediary development indicators tend to increase as we move from low- to high-income countries. Since conditional convergence is a feature of cross-country data sets over the post 1960 period (Barro and Sala-i-Martin, 1995), the positive correlation ...
